

April 4, 2016

English Hills, Ginza

Tokyo, Japan

Delinquency in the presence of a lifelong mission you possess produces nothing at all.

Toshiyuki Namai

I consider that to genuinely live as a sapient being is absolutely beautiful and meaningful for you all who dwell here on the earth. Obviously, whether you can make sense or not as a sapient being depends upon what kind of positive and feasible idea you possess.

No explanation is necessary regarding the following matter. For you to make your life as a beautiful one or not, everything hinges upon you. Fundamentally, you really don't have to trivialize anything regarding the idea you have for you to be unnaturally socialized. However, there is the one you really need to recognize and understand for your sake.

It is natural to say that delinquency not to do anything in accordance with a lifelong mission you possess is "very perilous" for the rest of your life. Delinquency literally means "not to do anything." Apparently, not to do anything gives you nothing at all.

Your potential in the future disappears all of a sudden, if you are loafing around through wasting time limited day after day.

I tell you the matter of great importance once again. It is really wise to know that delinquency in the presence of a lifelong mission you possess is an absolutely waste of time for the rest of your life. Not to do anything necessary produces nothing at all.

Essentially, the wise know the following logic in the civilized countries in the world here on this planet.

---1---

Delinquency gives you nothing positively.

---2---

Delinquency gives you so many things negatively.

---3---

It is impossible to realize your plan or dream, if you don't make time enough to do the things which you need for the plan or dream you have.

---4---

Time is the "most valuable asset" on the condition that you have life first and health second.

---5---

Time is a gift given.

The aforementioned logic is very essential for not only the wise but also people in general. But, usually, people in general can not take action according to this logic as a matter of reality facing every day.

Therefore, I'd like you to strive to do all of the things you need in order to realize your lifelong mission. Characteristically speaking, a human being is an existent who comprehends the usage of time (how to use time).